Cheryle commented on the treasurer's report – a reminder that when you see charges labeled Clover, they are credit card charges for SCOPP events.

Residents enjoyed the largest Thanksgiving dinner in the history of Park Place – not counting the meals that were delivered to residents. Residents commented that the lines for food went quickly and that the food was delicious.

Just a reminder to try to purchase tickets when they are being sold so that Chris Masino has an accurate count when purchasing food for the event.

Cheryle thanked Clem Massaro, and Jim Whaley for converting the barn façade into a gingerbread house.

Cheryle addressed the SCOPP Bylaws. We are waiting for Sharon Talty to return so the whole Board can work on them together.
